Burglary Doesn't Pay

Considering the business of breaking into stores in Dothan, past records are enough to discourage any burglar. But few ever get off with the stuff. A few weeks ago, a negro broke into a store and got a gun, and got caught. A few days ago a man entered a store and took some clothing, and a night or two ago a negro entered a store to take something that couldn't wait on the slow process of buying. They were all caught. Mighty few of them get off with the goods, and considering the jobs in this town that one can make enough to support a family at, it doesn't look like that the business of burglarizing a store would pay in the long run.

It is possible all right to enter a house and steal something and get off without being caught at the time, but the chances are the fellow will get caught later, four times out of five, and that's too risky a business for a fellow to follow.

If times were hard, work was scarce, it would be a little different. We would have an occasional case of a man's breaking into a house to get some grub for a starving family, but that time has never been in this town. All men who want to work, can find something to do every day in the year.

The Labor Question

Dothan needs more labor, and Houston county needs more labor. We don't need labor bad enough to accept the lower class of foreigners that go to plotting against the government and public officials, as soon as they learn a little English.

It is likely that the negro will give better all-around satisfaction than most any class of labor we would get. We know the negro, and he knows us, and each knows what to expect of the other.

We might get some industrious families from Germany, of a work-day disposition, that would be worth much to this county, but we won't be able to get them unless we can make them up a tract of land. They are home-owning folks, and are not content to work for some one else all the time.

New York and San Francisco are located just right to get all the criminal foreigners that have been run out of Europe and the United States, every little while some man is assassinated, or a building dynamited, or some rich man's child is kidnapped. Those things don't happen often in this part of the country like South Alabama.

When we need more labor, we need more negroes, ordinarily.

Frankly, we have our misgivings about a circus that will try to come to this town without placing the roofs of houses over the country with possibly twenty or thirty. We may have a circus, and it may come during this month, but it was our circus, we would get out some posters on the barns, wagon shelters, and cotton houses of this country, and run a few cuts showing a dozen or two of some acrobatic family, pyramided on the back of a gray horse. We would tell, only as the black press might say, of the steam piano, and the wild man, the beautiful snake charmer, who is really ugly enough to take the fight out of any snake. We would tell of the skilled tight rope walker, the high jumpers, of the perfectly laz-abiding, non-vaunting gentlemen who accompany the circus, and we would be telling it now. You can't over advertise a circus.

For fifteen years we have had a building, or several of them, in course of construction on one of the down town streets. We have folks here who have walked hundreds of miles out of their way, by walking around building material lying on the streets in front of some new building, or one that was being repaired. We have folks who have walked some, since the streets have been torn up, but did you ever think about the room that we will have when all of this work is finished? We mean, of course, the street work, for we are not expecting the building to stop in this town. This is a building town. As soon as one house is finished, and the streets are cleaned up, another is started. It is this kind of business that has made a town to be talked about.

It will be a big news item when it comes, but it is coming. The fuss the Noisy One is going to pick with Taft before we all get much older, is a certainty. Ever since he got back from Africa, he has been busy, finding out the lay of the land. He has seen for some time that Taft wasn't giving satisfaction—not living up to the recommendation that went with the nomination a year or two ago, and it has put the Colonel to studying. He knows to throw Taft down will be to acknowledge that his judgment was bad and that he made a mistake, a thing that he doesn't acknowledge very fast. And yet, it is bound to come.

It frequently happens that things go wrong. When they go wrong, we often know what caused it, who is to blame. It occasionally happens that when things go wrong that we fix the blame on some one. We all know that he is the one that caused the trouble, and it doesn't matter how the man has explained out of former fight places, we know he can't get out of this one. But when the time comes, we find that he has a perfectly legitimate excuse and that he exonerates himself in a most satisfactory manner.

The death of Max Hamburger removes from Alabama public life a most unique character. He was ever aggressive, and fighting for something or against something all the time. He started out in newspaper work as a country correspondent, and went down to Mobile where he got a real job on a newspaper. He worked up on this paper till he became its editor and owner, and then he got out of the newspaper business and entered politics, a thing he should have never done, probably.

When the census report came out about Birmingham's population, her papers were struck dumb. Neither of the three were able to get up a really readable story about the phenomenal growth, so graily were they surprised at the increase. Of course they were looking for something good, but they hadn't dared expect as much as the counters gave them. Just think what they could have been guessing.

Since the Montgomery Journal moved into a church for an office building, the Andalusia Star, with other papers have been poking fun, and suggesting that this church move was a good one, for it put the Journal crew about as near the throne of grace as it would ever get. To which the Journal comes back and quotes scripture out the same doors in open-mouth words.

Some of the best farmers of this section are men who, at some time of their lives, went west, looking for a good thing. They didn't find it, but had sense enough to come back home and go to work. They do well, in almost every instance. It is worth much to any man to get out and see what a poor place can be found away from home.

The pessimist will tell you that the cheerful man was always a fool.

Well, it will take a good deal of rain to wash the dust out.

A FEAST THAT FAILED.

The Story of a Raccoon That Was Not Served For Breakfast.

In the old days, and not so very old either, the custom of school-teachers "boarding around" was the usual thing in country districts. Although a custom which teachers seldom liked, it is doubtful if many of them had as hard a time as a young schoolmaster who described his experience in the New England Gallery for 1817. The article was written by Leonard Apthorp, then an undergraduate of Bowdoin college. The young schoolmaster was to receive $15 a month and his board:

From the first day I perceived that I was at board on speculation and at the mercy of a close calculation, he writes. One day the whole dinner consisted of a single dumpling, which they called a pudding, and five sausages, which in cooking shrunk to the size of pipestems. There were five of us at the table.

A few days afterward on my return from school my eyes were delighted by the sight of an animal I had never seen before. It was a raccoon, which the young man, Jonathan, had killed and brought home in triumph. When skinned he seemed to be one entire mass of fat and of a most delicate whiteness. I was overjoyed and went to bed early to dream of delicious steaks which the morrow would bring.

Long before daylight I heard the family stirring, and the alacrity of quick footsteps and the repeated opening and shutting of doors all gave assurance of the coming holiday.

I was soon ready for breakfast, and when seated at the table I observed that the place of Jonathan was vacant.

LIVE STOCK
EXHIBIT WILL BE GOOD ONE.

Many Fine Herefords, Short-horns, Jerseys, Graded Beef Cattle, Horses and Mules, Pure Bred Sheep and Hogs Will Be at the Pensacola Interstate Fair, Nov. 7 to 12.

It has not been so long ago but that very young people can still remember it when there were no cattle in Florida except the very long horned and lean animals that ranged the woods and gave about a pint of milk a day when fat and fresh. In those days a sheep was as rare as a giraffe and the hogs were of the good old razorback kind, which, however, are good in their place. Horses and mules were very rare, and most of the mules came from far off Missouri. In fact, no one here dreamed that a mule could be bred in Florida.

But in very recent years things have changed. Some Hereford Shorthorns, Jerseys and beef cattle will be shown at the Pensacola Interstate fair of as good quality as will be seen at any of the state fairs throughout the great cattle growing countries of the middle west. No one means to say that Florida has as many cattle as Kansas or Nebraska, but at the Interstate fair, Nov. 7 to 12, as fine cattle may be seen as are raised in those states.

The reason is plain. No state in the country is a better cattle district. So much forage grows wild that stock requires so much less feeding than elsewhere, and then it is so easy to grow good hay and grain in the country anywhere in west Florida or south Alabama.

Another thing that caters to the excellence of the gulf coast live stock is the great abundance of water in all the region that will be represented at the fair. Many Kansas and Nebraska farmers have to let their cattle subsist for months on stagnant water in pools nearly dried up, and that does not tend to the excellence of the animal.

The cattle alone will be an object lesson to all the farmers in western Florida and southern Alabama and south Georgia who come to the fair. They will see that it is no longer necessary to go as far west as Texas or north to Illinois to see pure bred cattle and other live stock.

Seeing these live stock and talking with their owners and breeders will be more than an education to the visiting farmer and stock grower. It will mean that within a few years a very great increase will be made in the

A Lark All Around.

Two Englishmen on a visit to Ireland hired a boat for the purpose of having a sail. One of the Britons, thinking he would have a good joke at Pat's expense, asked him if he knew anything about astrology.

"Be jabbers, no," said Pat.

"Then that's the best part of your life just lost," answered the Englishman.

The second Englishman then asked Pat if he knew anything about theology.

"Be jabbers, no," answered Pat.

"Well, I just guess that's the very best part of your life lost," said the second Englishman.

A few minutes later the boat capsized, and Pat began to swim. The Britons, however, could not swim, and both called loudly to Pat to help them.

"Do you know anything about swimology?" asked Pat.

"No," answered both Englishmen.

"Well, be jabbers," replied Pat, "then both of your lives is lost."

Misnamed.

During a geography lesson in a Baltimore school one day the teacher spoke at great length touching that wonderful stream, the Mississippi. Incidentally she afforded the pupils some interesting account of the historic events associated with the great river. "Finally," said she, "we must not overlook the poetic value of the name Mississippi. It means 'Father of Waters.' Don't forget that, boys and girls."

One lad, however, was not much impressed by this later contribution to his store of knowledge. "If beg pardon, ma'am," said he, "but if the name of the river means 'Father of Waters,' why don't they call it 'Mister Sippi?'"—Circle.

BOUND FOR THE FRONT.

An Incident Showing the Military Courage of the Montenegrins.

"A military courage the Montenegrins probably stands at the head of European races. The best wish for a baby boy is 'May you not die in your bed,' and to face death is to men or boys only a joyous game. Says W. J. Stillman in his 'Autobiography':

"I have seen a man under a heavy Turkish fire deliberately leave the trenches and climb the breastwork, only to expose himself from sheer bravado.

While lying at headquarters at Oreabuk, awaiting the opening of the campaign in 1877, I was walking one day with the prince when a boy of sixteen or eighteen approached us, cap in hand.

"Now," said the prince, "I'll show you an interesting thing. This boy is the last of a good family. His father and brothers were all killed in the last battle, and I ordered him to go home and stay with his mother and sisters that the family might not become extinct."

The boy drew near and stopped before us, his head down, his cap in hand.

"What do you want?" asked the prince.

"I want to go back to my battalion."

"But," said the prince, "you are the last of your line, and I cannot allow a good family to be lost. You must go home and take care of your mother."

The boy began to cry bitterly.

"Will you go home quietly and stay there," said the prince, "or will you take a flogging and be allowed to fight?"

The boy thought for a moment. A flogging, he knew well, is the deepest disgrace that can befall a Montenegrin.

"Well," he broke out, "since it isn't for stealing, I'll be flogged."

"No," said the prince, "you must go home."

Then the boy broke down utterly.

"But," he cried, "I want to avenge my father and brothers!"

He went away still crying, and the prince said, "In spite of all this he will be in the next battle."

Artful Parisian Beggars.

Parisian beggars have been known to go far beyond a sham fight with a dog in the gutter for a crust. Maxime du Camp has recorded how, on an August Sunday in 1887, at an hour when the quays were crowded, a shabby man uttered a cry of despair and threw himself into the Seine near the Pont de l'Alma. He had sunk twice when a man in workmen's clothes plunged in, swam after him and effected an apparently difficult rescue. As the crowd surrounded the two on the bank the rescued one slowly came to, reproached the rescuer for saving a hopeless, workless man, who had not eaten for three days, and tried to rush off again, crying, "Let me die!" The rescuer pulled out half a franc, saying: "Take this. I shall only have to go without dinner today." And of course the crowd liberally followed suit. But the skeptical police shadowed the two, saw them count up the spoils in a tavern and presently arrested the two ex-convicts, dead drunk.—London Chronicle.

Keep Accounts.

Keeping accounts, simple in form, plain, clear and easily understood, showing amounts due to or from others, entering correctly the dates on which money is paid out or received, is the best plan to avoid disputes about money matters and relieves the memory of many unnecessary burdens. A written record of a money transaction has greater legal value in case of controversy in court than any verbal statement. The habit of keeping accounts induces economy in expenditure and inspires the habit of saving up, besides showing at all times a correct financial condition. Housekeepers, mechanics and all who handle money in the management of their personal affairs will find it most profitable to learn the habit of keeping accounts.

NEGROES LYNCH ONE OF OWN RACE ATTACKED A NEGRO WOMAN AND HER FRIENDS FIND AND KILL HIM

Talladega, Oct. 3.—Probably the first case of lynching by a mob of negroes alone without the aid and consul of white men, occurred near McFall Sunday, October 2, in this county.

Thursday, a strange negro at a farm near Lincoln, fourteen miles from Talladega, assaulted a negro woman under circumstances of unusual atrocity.

The alarm was soon given, but the assailant escaped, going in an easterly direction on the road leading to McFall. The Lincoln negroes, consisting of friends and relatives of the woman assaulted, made some efforts to procure a warrant, but for some reason they did not succeed in getting legal papers for the apprehension of the fleeing negro.

By a system of "grapevine telegraphy" peculiar to the negroes, the alarm was kept on the trail of the assailant, and he was thought to be located Sunday near McFall, a station on the Georgia Pacific Division of the Southern road. Sunday, when the eastbound train on the Southern Railroad rolled out of Lincoln it was boarded by a number of negroes who had purchased tickets to McFall, and who were the relatives and neighbors of the outraged woman. They were not noisy or demonstrative, nor were any unusual number of weapons in evidence.

Arriving at McFall they separated into groups and began a quiet still hunt for the man.

In a short time they located a negro who answered the description previously obtained, and without any waste of time they filled his body full of bullets and left him dead.

Will Thweatt, a merchant of McFall called up the Talladega authorities Monday and notified them that there was a dead man, unburied near that place. Coroner R. Heine procured an automobile and went there at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

It has been but a short time since the entire community around Lincoln was stirred over an assault upon a white woman by a negro. Several parties were arrested, and released upon a preliminary trial, and it is not thought the right man has yet been apprehended. This circumstance gave rise to much talk of lynching among the people living near Lincoln, some of which was evidently heard by the negroes, which doubtless gave them the cue to take the law into their own hands in this instance.

The name of the man killed or the woman assaulted has not been learned, but it is generally stated on the streets that the negro assailant was not a person belonging to that neighborhood. In the annals of the county this is the first instance of where negroes have visited summary vengeance upon one of their own race for a crime against negro women, or any other crime.

SCARED OVER CHOLERA

Washington, October 3.—How gravely the public health and marine hospital service regards the possibility of the invasion of cholera from the infected sections of Europe became known today, when the advisory health board was called to meet in Washington.

Another evidence of the alarm with which the situation is viewed came to light today when the service decided to double its officers at every port from which steamships sail or at which immigrants gather in Italy, Germany or Russia. The increasing death rate in Russia and the spread of the scourge into Italy and Germany, has set the public health service on double guard. The whole situation is to be laid before the advisory board, and the public health service expects to have the advice of the foremost scientists.

YOUNG WHITE MAN IS BADLY INJURED

John Enfinger, a young white man living near Dothan, was badly hurt yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from a buggy on South Foster street.

Enfinger was driving his horse down the street when the animal made a quick turn, throwing him from the vehicle to the ground, his head striking against a stone. He was picked up and rushed to medical aid. Several stitches were taken in his head.

KENTUCKIANS FIGHT DUEL

ALLY DIE IN EACH OTHERS ARMS AT THE END OF THE AFFRAY

Coburn, Ky., Oct. 3.—With both of their revolvers emptied and each man's body literally riddled by bullets, Henry Lee, a constable, and James Williams, a private policeman, fell dead in each other's arms at the end of a shooting affray in this city late today.

The men met and before either had spoken a word, began firing. Neither man missed a shot, Williams' body being pierced by six bullets and Lee's by four.

Lee had shot and seriously wounded William's father and brother several weeks ago. Williams was formerly county sheriff and was well known.

CRITERION ENTERTAINMENT ENJOYED BY OLD VETS.

The picture "On the Road to Richmond" shown this morning at the Criterion theatre, one of the best subjects produced yet, was enjoyed by a large number of old soldiers.

The entertainment was given by Manager Morris of the theatre and was a free treat to the old veterans who were having a meeting here today.

Two other subjects were also shown and each of them was worthy of note.

The picture "On the road to Richmond" was one to be enjoyed by all southerners and was that a Union fighter would see with pleasure. During the battle scenes in which the Southern ranks were gaining on the enemy, the many white heads in the auditorium cheered with enthusiasm.

Dixie was rendered on the piano by Miss Virgie Harrison.

The same program will be put on tonight.

DOTHAN MAN IN THE EXPLOSION

Ernest Jordan, a printer, who is reported among the missing following the explosion of the Los Angeles Times Saturday, formerly resided in Dothan, where he was employed on The Houston Eagle, founded by the late Simon Blue. Mr. Jordan left Dothan some seven or eight years ago and went west. His Alabama friends had heard nothing from him in late years until his name appeared as one of the missing in the horrible disaster at Los Angeles.

Mr. Jordan was married and had one child.

Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Wednesday.

The Strich & Zeidler Around The World

U. S. S. Kansas, August 12, 1910
Messrs STRICH & ZEIDLER
New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

I take pleasure in expressing my highest appreciation of the beautiful Strich & Zeidler Piano, which was purchased for the U. S. Battleship "Kennebec" in May 1906, and cannot use terms too strong in praising the splendid tonal qualities of the instrument, and its remarkable durability.

On the tour around the World of the Atlantic Fleet, which left on December 15th, 1907, and returned February 22, at 9 A. M., Hampton Roads, Va. 1909, it assisted in passing many pleasant hours and although passing through the climates of the Equator and Cape Horn, the piano standing between a steam radiator and a pothole, it was as fine in tone as when we left New York.

Yours very truly,
ADOLPH H. HAUSSER.
